JACKSONVILLE, Fla. -- A small drug test that the manufacturer says will reveal, with 100 percent accuracy if their kids are doing drugs is new on the market.

Now you can test without them even knowing. New wipes, called DrugWipe, are on the market that claim to reveal use of more than seven different drugs.

You rub it across any non-porous surface that the person touches enough to leave fingerprints, for instance a door knob, computer mouse or bedroom dresser.
